作文題目: E-Sports as Replacements for Real Sports (100%)

In Taiwan almost 10 million people regularly play videogames using all sorts of “screens,” including PCs, smartphones, tablets, and game consoles. Most of these are “casual” gamers who enjoy “battle strategy” games such as World of Warcraft or League of Legends, but many are “professional” e-sports athletes who have brought pride to Taiwan in competitions against teams from other countries such as Korea. Last year the government asked the Ministry of Education to classify online gaming as an “indoor sport.” This would give university Physical Education (PE) programs the right to offer classes in online gaming, allowing these new e-sports classes to replace standard athletics classes in team sports such as basketball or volleyball.

Develop a short essay (250 to 300 words) that begins with the thesis statement:

“Sometimes the things we love can both help us and hurt us.”

In your first paragraph (which begins with this thesis statement) talk about the benefits of online gaming (or what is now more commonly called “e-sports”) for young people such as yourself. Focus on the intellectual and psychological benefits of e-sports. Use these benefits to examine the idea of PE programs offering e-sports as alternatives to traditional athletics or team sports. End this paragraph with an appropriate “segue” or “transitional sentence” to prepare the reader for the next paragraph that will look at the disadvantages of online gaming (or e-sports) as replacements for classes in basketball, volleyball, running, etc..

In your second paragraph examine reasons why e-sports should not be officially encouraged as replacements for physical athletics or team sports classes such as basketball, volleyball, or even bowling.

In your third paragraph conclude your essay by revealing your personal agreement or disagreement with the suggestion that PE programs can offer e-sports courses instead of athletics classes that focus on team sports or personal body training. Briefly summarize (taking from the already stated arguments in the previous paragraphs) the reasons for your enthusiasm or lack of enthusiasm for this change in the PE curriculum.

Composition Advice:

This is an essay. Write complete sentences. DO NOT use an outline format. Indent each paragraph (as was done above). Be sure you understand what you are being asked to write about in each paragraph. Stay focused so that everything you say is directly related to the thesis statement (which has been given to you). Never say something that is not related to this thesis statement. Proofread your essay to make sure your spelling, grammar, and punctuation are good. Please understand that this essay will in part be judged according to how well you are able to follow instructions! So be careful and read the instructions slowly before you begin writing, then re-read what you've written before turning it in.
